Summer Activities

Jackson Hole in the summer is a dreamland for adults and children alike. The days are warm, gilded with sun, long as a river. Shady forests beckon; clear streams tumble along, trails switchback toward the sky. Summer in Wyoming is about spending as much time as possible out-of-doors. And there is so much to do, so much to see. Below are a few of our favorite activities, guides and contacts. The Clear Creek Group concierge service can arrange everything for you. Just give a call.

Alpine Sliding

(307-733-5200)

Ride up the chairlift, and then slide down (at a relaxing or exhilarating pace: your choice!) Snow King Mountain amid trees and wildflowers. You control the speed of your slide; children love this activity!

Boating in Grand Teton National Park

Motorboats are permitted on Jenny (10 horsepower maximum) and Jackson Lakes. Human-powered vessels are permitted on Jackson, Jenny, Phelps, Emma Matilda, Two Ocean, Taggart, Bradley, Bearpaw, Leigh and String Lakes. Sailboats, water skiing and windsurfers are allowed only on Jackson Lake.

Chair Lift Rides

Snow King (800-552-KING)

Rendezvous Mountain (307-733-2292)

Snow King and Rendezvous Mountain, at the Jackson Hole Mountain Resort, offer great ways to check out the scenery, at higher elevations, by means of chair lifts, gondolas and the tram. At the summits of Snow King and Rendezvous Mountain, the huge, sweeping mountain vistas will have you thinking about next year's family Christmas card photo! Make sure to bring a camera and a fleece/coat as the summits are often windy and temperatures are noticeably cooler.

Colter Bay Marina

(307-543-2811)

The marina, north of Moran in Grand Teton National Park, offers canoes and boats for rent. Paddle around Jackson Lake at the base of Mount Moran. Be sure to phone in advance.

Disc/Frisbee Golf

(307-733-2292; Teton Village)

Jackson Hole has a great disc golf course in Teton Village. The FREE 9-hole course starts uphill from the bottom of the Gondola. It winds its way up Eagle's Rest Cutoff and over to the top of Eagle's Rest Lift, and then descends back to the bottom of Lower Werner. The holes total to 3,285 feet, but the walk is a bit longer. Picnic tables are available along the course for a rest. Discs are available to purchase at Nick Wilson's in the Tram Building. Additionally, Nick Wilson's offers plenty of tasty food and beverages for your après-golf enjoyment.

Dornan's

(307-733-2415; in Moose Village, 7 miles north of Jackson)

Dornan's rents canoes and all you need for a day's outing—paddles, life preservers, a park permit and pads and ropes for carrying the canoe on your car. The canoes can be used only on lakes, and there are fabulous options! We recommend String, Leigh, or Jenny Lakes, all at the foot of the oh-so-grand Tetons in the park. Advance reservations recommended. Pick up picnic supplies at the market. Fly-fishing guides and river rafting arrangements can be made here, too! www.dornans.com

Gaper Guide

(307-733-4626; 145 West Gill Avenue)

These portable guides are for Yellowstone and Grand Teton National Parks. The GPS-enabled tour guide sits on your vehicle's dashboard. As the GPS unit identifies where you are, it points out interesting facts, local history and stories of the legends of the national parks. So instead of trying to read a guidebook as you make your way through the parks, this device will act as your personal tour guide. www.gaperguide.com

Granite Hot Springs

(307-733-3300)

Granite is a privately maintained "good old western hot springs" that is great for soaking bones weary from a long hike or horseback ride. Enjoy fantastic mountain views from the hot spring pool, built in 1933 by the Civilian Conservation Corps. The water comes out of the ground at about 112° degrees and cold water is added so that the controlled pool temperature is about 95° degrees in the summer and 105° degrees in the winter. (Directions: Take Highway 89 south to Hoback Junction, veer east on Highway 189, follow the highway to the Granite Hot Springs sign, about ten miles past the Hoback Junction, and then turn north on a forest service road for another ten miles.)

Gros Ventre Slide

The Slide is an interesting geologic site on the east side of the valley in the Gros Ventre Mountains. The slide occurred in 1925 and naturally dammed the Gros Ventre River, creating Upper and Lower Slide Lake in the process. You can see the slide from many points in the valley. The Forest Service has placed excellent markers in the area describing what happened, and they have established a good nature trail. (Directions: Take 191/89 north to Gros Ventre Junction and turn east to Kelly, drive one mile beyond Kelly, turn right past Kelly Warm Springs and drive up the valley to the slide.)

Hot Air Balloon Adventures: Wyoming Balloon Company

(307-739-0900)

With 40 years of flying experience, professional pilots fly these gentle giants for an exhilarating and peaceful journey to get a full overall perspective of Teton Valley. Rides last about an hour or so and depart in the early morning. www.wyomingballoon.com

The National Elk Refuge

The refuge is where 7,500 elk make their home in the winter months; and while you probably won't see elk in the summer, it's a lovely spot for a quiet evening walk and a wonderful view of the Tetons. Drive out as far as you want, then park and walk. Keep an eye out for deer and many birds, including ducks, trumpeter swans, geese and sandhill cranes. Look for bighorn sheep on top of the butte on the west side of the road. Visit Curtis Canyon Overlook, just east of the refuge in Bridger-Teton National Forest, for stunning views of Jackson Hole and the Teton Range. (Directions: follow Broadway east of the Town Square to its end at the entrance to the refuge)

HIKING AND CLIMBING

In Jackson and the surrounding area there are a multitude of places to climb, hike or just stroll, so many that we cannot suggest (or even know) them all within the pages of this guide. We can, however, tickle your interest and point you in the right direction.

The distance and elevation information mentioned in this section came from Rebecca Woods’ book, Jackson Hole Hikes, in which you will find a mountain of information about trails and trails. Another guide we find worthy of mentioning is Bill Schneider’s Best Easy Day Hikes, Yellowstone. One map we are particularly fond of is a National Geographic’s Trails Illustrated map for Grand Teton and Yellowstone National Parks. All three of these guides, along with many other wonderful periodicals, some more technical and some more focused on the wild flowers and animals, can be found at most of the local outdoor shops or at our favorite bookstore, Valley Bookstore, located just off the town square in Gaslight Alley.

If you are not comfortable with going it on your own, included in the following paragraphs, we will suggest several guide services that can do anything from taking you on a family picnic and flower walk to an overnight, guided trek up The Grand.

Peruse the following, let your imagination go and do not hesitate to contact your Clear Creek Group concierge 307-732-3400 for personalized and private services.

JACKSON HOLE

Some General Summer Hiking Wildlife Information

Grand Teton National Park is the home to moose, elk, deer, bear, mountain lion, eagle, osprey and a wide range of cute, furry, little animals. Please walk with caution, sing your favorite camp songs and never approach the wildlife ... that means no peanuts for the marmots and don't try to pet the moose!

Please stop by the wonderful visitor center at the Moose entrance to Grand Teton National Park and take a moment to talk with the rangers about the wildlife, trails and trail maps.

Always, take several layers with you and be sure to include rain gear. Summer storms come up in just minutes changing warm summer sunshine into blowing cold rains... wait five minutes and it will be back to sunshine, probably with a rainbow!

Amphitheatre Lake Trail

(4.8 miles one-way, 2960 ft. elevation gain)

Here's a trail that can get you in and out of the high mountains in a day, presuming that you're in good shape and acclimated to the altitude – it's a 3,000-ft climb. You will cross the glacial moraines and meadows quilted with flowers, and enter forests of fir and pine (including whitebark pine, a delicacy for bears—be alert!). A wonderful reward awaits you: the magical blue water of the high alpine Amphitheatre Lake.

Cache Creek/Game Creek

(9.7 miles one-way, 800 ft. elevation gain)

Hike along Cache Creek, a local's favorite, you'll discover a wide main trail and a network of narrower trails. You'll likely see mountain bikers who are making their way along the Putt-Putt and Hagen trails, both OK for hiking, but perhaps best to stay away from those two trails unless you want to keep a constant eye out for speeding bicycles. Dogs are welcome! If you would like to walk from Cache Creek to Game Creek, we suggest you park shuttle a car to the Game Creek trailhead. Please contact your Clear Creek Group concierge for directions to this trailhead or assistance with a car shuttle. (Directions: Drive east on Broadway, turn right on Redmond, then left on Cache Creek Drive to the trailhead.)

Goodwin Lake–Jackson Peak

(Goodwin Lake: 6.0 miles round trip to the lake and back, 800-foot elevation gain)

(Jackson Peak: 9.0 miles round trip, 2380-foot elevation gain)

You will note Jackson Peak as you drive along the airport road, to the east. This is a wonderful hike and your dogs are welcome! You will have a steady uphill until Goodwin Lake and then, get ready for the challenge to Jackson Peak ... or stop, have a picnic, fish and enjoy being in such a beautiful spot! (Directions: The road runs right out of town and thru the elk refuge. Drive to the end of East Broadway past the hospital, and then turn left onto the National Elk Refuge. Follow the dirt road, pass the Curtis Canyon Campground turnoff, and go to Sheep Creek Road junction, which is 9.2 miles. Bear right here and drive another 2.7 miles to the trailhead parking lot.)

Granite Canyon

Ahhh, Granite Canyon! Open vistas at the beginning of the hike treat you with huge mountain views, sagebrush tangled with pink sticky geranium and yellow western dandelions. Make this one as long or as short as you like. It is a wonderful family hike with streams to cross (there are bridges) and play in, and only slight elevation changes in the first few miles. This trail winds up to the top of the ski mountain, if you are truly looking for a hard work out! (Directions: From the Moose-Wilson Road, southern ranger station entrance, located 1 mile north of the Village, Granite Canyon is your first trailhead on the left.)

Hole Hiking Experience

(307-690-4453)

Jackson Hole's premier hiking tour company has been offering tours in this region since 1989. Experienced guides will take you off the beaten path to explore the more peaceful corners of the valley and beyond. Their knowledgeable naturalist guides will educate you on the local flora and fauna, geology and the history of The Greater Yellowstone ecosystem. Hiking tours are offered for all ages and abilities, with wonderful lunches if you would like! www.holehike.com

JACKSON HOLE

Jenny Lake, String Lake, Leigh Lake, Moose Ponds, Inspiration Point, Boat across Jenny Lake

This trail system, we feel, is the most diverse trail system in the Park. It will have something for everyone in your group. With our visiting families, we love to spend the day on and around this trail system. Some runners will go one way, waterfall lovers another and others will bask in the sun lakeside. A much understated overview: the trail system links together three lakes, the southern most is Jenny Lake, the middle is String Lake, and the northern most is Leigh Lake. Combine a boat ride across Jenny Lake with a hike up to the waterfalls, loop Jenny Lake and finish at String Lake for a dinner picnic with The Grand reflecting in the cool waters. (This is our favorite swimming rock!) Here are the facts:

Moose Ponds: 3 miles round trip, elevation gain/loss approximately 160 feet

Hidden Falls Loop: 4.9 miles round trip, elevation gain/loss approximately 400 feet

Hidden Falls–Inspiration Point via boat: 0.9 miles, one way, elevation gain 417 feet

Jenny Lake Loop: 6.6 miles round trip, level

String Lake Loop: 3.6 miles round trip, elevation gain 309 feet

Leigh Lake: 7.4 miles, round trip, elevation gain slight.

(Directions: Enter Grand Teton National Park at Moose Ranger Station. Pass the Chapel of the Transfiguration, Bradley and Taggart Lake trailheads. You may park either at Jenny Lake or String Lake both of which are well-signed and approximately 10 plus miles north of the ranger station entrance.)

Phelps Lake Overlook and Phelps Lake

(0.9 miles one way, 420-foot elevation gain)

This is a wonderful trail for a sunny day as the deep wooded forest and lush green floor protects from the sun's intensity. This trail has many streams that nourish the wildlife and cause the wildflowers to grow in thick abundance. The “overlook” takes in Phelps Lake 600 feet below and southern views of the Snake River corridor. Vistas open to the west thru the Death Canyon, to which this trail leads. We suggest a trip to the jumping rock down at the lake, a picnic and, of course, a daring leap off the rock into the lake! (Directions: Enter Grand Teton National Park at either end of the nine mile Moose-Wilson Road [also known as the Village Road]. Follow the signs to the Death Canyon Trailhead. You will feel like you are there when you begin to see the parked cars, but keep going all the way up to the trailhead. Parking is usually not a problem there. While you are driving, you'll notice that the dirt road narrows and is rutted ... keep going! It's worth the slow, bumpy ride in—we promise!

Phelps Lake–Laurance Rockefeller Preserve Center

(307-739-3399)

Located four miles south of Moose on the Moose-Wilson Road. Access via the Southern Park Entrance on the Moose-Wilson (Village) Road is easy as well. Tour the Center and follow with a ranger or guide yourself to Phelps Lake. This mostly shaded walk to Phelps Lake is easy with little or no elevation change.

Snake River

There is a perfectly flat meandering path along the Snake River. You may see moose, osprey, eagle or herons, and you will surely see lots of locals walking their dogs! You really cannot beat a sunny stroll along the Snake River. This is also a great place to bring your fly rod and practice your cast. And, after a run or walk, consider cooling off, like the locals do, by taking a dip in the refreshing waters of the Snake River. (Directions: park off of Highway 22 between Jackson and Wilson on the southwest or northeast side of the river at the Snake River Bridge.)

Snow King Mountain

(1.8 miles from the base to the top of the lift)

A ski lift takes you to the top of the steep—1,600 vertical feet—Snow King Mountain. The hike is strenuous and pretty, offering superb views including the peaks of the Tetons, town, and the valley. Though the switchbacks are grueling, you'll love the panoramic view from the top! You can choose to ride the chairlift down from the summit for $1 in order to save your knees—or, of course, you can give them a good workout! (Directions: park at corner of Cache and Snow King adjacent to the ski lift.)

The Clear Creek Group

JACKSON HOLE

Taggart and Bradley Lake Loop

(5.1 miles round trip, 500-foot elevation gain)

This is a delightful hike with a combination of wide-open views and shaded trails. Waterfalls, lakes and wide mountain vistas will be your rewards for sure. A fire consumed a large part of this trail system in 1985. The results are abundant flowers, bluebirds, owls and woodpeckers. (Directions: Enter Grand Teton National Park at the north Moose entrance. From this entrance, it is three miles to the trailhead parking.)

On Your Own

If you would like to try mountaineering or rock climbing, we highly recommend both Jackson Hole Mountain Guides (307-733-4979) and Exum Guide School of Mountaineering (307-733-2297). Both offer basic, intermediate and advanced instruction as well as guiding on various Teton routes, including the impressive and ultra-classic Grand Teton.
